POETRY.

WOMAN'S EYES.

By the Author of "Songs of Switzerland," &c.

Away, away ! I'll drink no more—
 Let's join the minstrel throng ;
Away, where voice and lute outpour
 The dulcet tide of song,
But let it be where Beauty's bower
 Its sweetest theme supplies ;
Song loses half its magic power
 Unblest by Woman's eyes.

The warrior's lance, the poet's pen,
 May win immortal fame ;
As ocean cave and mountain glen
 Are taught each glorious name.
Yet is there still than fame, perchance,
 A prouder, richer prize ;
Who values not the sunny glance
 Who's home is Woman's eyes ?

There is an hour when words are vain,
 An hour twice known to none ;
It is when hearts, that once were twain,
 First feel they are but one.
E'en then when sense appeals to sense,
 And passion speech denies ;
What then is Love's best eloquence ?
 'Tis that of Woman's eyes.

I've drained the cup on Rhine's proud hills,
 I've drank Garonne, to thee ;
Where laugh the snow-alp' thousand rills,
 I've quaff'd to liberty.
But, oh ! of all the bacchant stores,
 Garonne or Rhine supplies.
Give me the cup that, mantling up,
 Is drained to Woman's eyes.

'Oriental Pirates.'—A sketch of their most noted Chief:—Among the most desperate and successful of the cruisers is this widely-dreaded Rajah Raga, known as the Prince of Pirates, who, for more than twenty years, "carried all before him." His expeditions have invariably been stamped with singular cunning and intelligence, barbarity and recklessness. During his noviciate under an experienced chief, he was frequently exposed to imminent danger by the vigilance of our cruisers ; once, when many of his companions were destroyed by a furious shower of grape from his Majesty's sloop Rattlesnake ; and again, in January, 1808, when two or three vessels then belonging to his leader were taken and burnt by the Drake frigate, near the Arroas, in the Straits of Malacca. We accidentally fell in with them at this moment, and we well remember seeing the third proa creeping off under the land, but little suspected the destinies she bore, till we heard of the Raga's bragging afterwards of this escape. He then became a chief himself, and continued, to the latest news from those quarters, the scourge of the sea. He has emmissaries every where, and the intelligence which he acquires is of the greatest authenticity. If the object is of moment, he undertakes the execution himself ; if otherwise, he detaches a trusty officer.

In 1813, he cut off three English vessels, and killed their captains with his own hand, an achievment of which he delights to boast ; as well as that he has personally slain twenty-five out of upwards of forty commanders of European vessels which fell into his clutches. These exploits, together with the seas of blood wantonly shed by his myrmidons, were a set-off among the treacherous Malays against his aggressions on the native trade ; and few, even of those who had themselves lost proas, will speak against Raga, whose successes against the Europeans are the admiration of all the young men, and the theme of much of the modern poetry of their beautiful language.

Convent for Cats in Antioch.—Having left an introductory letter at the Roman Catholic convent for the superior, who was asleep, I visited an institution of a similar description for cats, except that celibacy and sexual separation form no part of their statutes. It was near to the former, and the fights and flirtations of this feline community were a scandal in the eyes of the good Franciscans, who were said to consider the cats most lax in their discipline. They had amounted to five hundred, but the plague in the previous year had reduced their number to two hundred. This was endowed by some pious Mussulman, and an old mosque with its court has been given up to their use. So liberal are the provisions of the endowment, that cats, whether of Mohammedan or Christian education, are equally entitled to admission : neither are the benefits confined to worn-out or broken-down cats ; but any one who has a favorite cat, or a cat that steals cream, or any dying person wishes to provide for a cat, sends it to this hotel, where it is taken care of for life. Many of them were basking upon their grassy divan in the court when I visited them, others had gone out to promenade upon the house-tops ; and, having deposited a small sum as "backsdeesh," I took my leave, highly gratified at having witnessed so wise, pious, and useful an appropriation of property. There is an extensive manufactory of cat-gut in the suburbs of the city. The prejudice against dogs, as unclean animals, is not less extravagant among these people than their silly fondness for cats. If a dog touches a Mohammedan after he has washed, he must wash again before he prays. In Egypt there is a sect called "Shaffi," who, if the shadow of a dog falls upon them, are obliged to wash ; and, if a dog touches their garment, they cut out the piece.—Monro's Summer Rambles in Syria.

An Anecdote of Portuguese Honesty.—A German gentleman, about a year and a half before, previously to the investment of the place, had given a poor peasant woman a piece of linen to make shirts ; and, to his astonishment, she made and brought them all to him, having conveyed them safely through the midst of the Miguelite soldiery, at a time when troops in general would be too apt to appropriate so useful an article to themselves. On mentioning this to an English lady in Porto, she said, 'Oh ! that is nothing—a poor woman has brought me back all the thread I gave her to make tape, saying that she could not make the tape, as the soldiers had burned her machinery.' There were numberless instances of servants and others begging in the streets, rather than make any use of the property entrusted to their charge. I am confident that if I returned to Porto, I should find a few things that I gave to some poor people, telling them to keep them till I returned, most faithfully guarded. Such is the fidelity of these people. I doubt if any virtues the constitution may produce will make amends for those they will lose, even if they should arrive at penny papers every morning at breakfast, and have the beautiful clearness of their atmosphere destroyed by the vapours and smoke of manufactories.

TO THE PUBLIC.—THOMSONIAN INFIRMARY—at No. 23 Harvard street. (Harvard street leads from Front street, and is opposite No. 499 Washington street Boston.)

The Proprietor of this Infirmary would respectfully announce to his friends and the community at large, that he has succeeded Dr Andrew Watkins in the foregoing and well known popular establishment. And he would now make his grateful acknowledgments for the patronage he has already received during the short time he has been there, and would solicit the continuance of the same from the numerous frequenters of this institution.

Long experience in the theory and practice of the Botanic System of Medicine has rendered him perfectly familiar with the administration of these remedies ; and the decided success he has met with in many cases which were extremely doubtful and dangerous, enables him with confidence to assert, that they are both safe and powerful in their operation on the human frame, and will, beyond all dispute, expel all maladies which flesh is heir to, from the human system, (as millions of the people of the United States can testify,) provided application be made in season. The Infirmary will be conducted on pure Thomsonian principles, and under the patronage and direction of Dr Samuel Thomson, the venerable founder of the system, who, when in the city, makes this establishment his home.

Dr James Howarth, of the firm of James Howarth & Co., who is one of the general agents of Dr Thomson for this part of the country, also resides at the Infirmary, and will render his aid and assistance when necessary in cases of difficulty. The experience this gentleman has had in administering Thomsonian Medicine to the sick has rendered him perfectly conversant with the Botanic System of Practice. It is unnecessary to detail, in an advertisement, his qualifications, being well known in Andover and Boston and many other places in New-England. The public are already acquainted with them. It may be added, however, that he is a thorough Thomsonian, and a perfect disciplinarian both in its theory and practice.

The above establishment has, since it has been relinquished by the former occupant, been partially refitted, and will now afford every convenience for the comfort of invalids. It is pleasantly and elligibly situated in a central and retired part of the city ; and is free from the noise and bustle which is always very offensive and injurious to the sick. Faithful and experienced nurses will likewise afford their untiring attendance on the sick. Pure Thomsonian medicine, together with Family Rights, Robinson's Lecture, and all other books relating to the system, constantly for sale at the Infirmary on moderate terms

TO THE AFFLICTED.—DR. T. BELL at No 45, South Russell street, corner of May street, tenders his services to the public. Having been forty years in the practice of physic both in Europe and America, he flatters himself of being able to give general satisfaction. For the last fifteen years he has adopted the vegetable medicine system—the advantages this system possesses over every other is sufficiently tested in every section of the Union. He will undertake the following disorders where there is a prospect of cure, viz: cancers—asthma—coughs of ever so long standing—scrofula—ulcers from whatever cause, &c. Also—liver complaints—piles—worms—jaundice, and Dysentery.

N. B.—Also, a certain complaint, (in most cases without the use of mercury.) People of either sex may be introduced to the Doctor without seeing any other person, and at the same time may rely upon secrecy and honor. eo6t—o16

CLOTHES DRESSING EXTRAORDINARY.—W. S. JINNINGS, No 10 Franklin Avenue, near Cornhill, respectfully informs the public, that he still continues to carry on the business of Clothes Dressing, in all its various branches, as usual—and being gratefully thankful for past favors, earnestly hopes by his untiring zeal in the prosecution of his branch, to merit continued patronage. As to the economy and utility of the improved art of clothes dressing, those who doubt its renovating and beneficial effects in restoring old garments to their original appearance, the subscriber most respectfully invites to make a fair trial before passing a cold and unfavorable judgment—and assures all such, that no pains will be spared to render satisfaction.

Gentlemen's garments altered and repaired in the neatest manner, and a liberal price given for off-cast clothes.

N. B. All orders as above, will meet with prompt attention.

HOWARD HOUSE.

HOWARD STREET.

The subscriber respectfully informs his friends and the public, that he has taken that well known and extensive establishment, formerly occupied by the late Mr WILLIAM GALLAGHER. He hopes by strict attention and a desire to please, to merit a share of patronage from the public which was bestowed upon his predecessor.

The House is situated in the most central part of the city, and contiguous to the Post Office and other public buildings. It has been fitted up in a neat and genteel style,—the rooms airy and retired. The Larder will at all times be provided with every delicacy the season will afford.

Parties wishing to be provided with entertainment for any number of persons, can be accommodated at the shortest notice. A few single gentlemen can be accommodated with board.
m7 JAMES RYAN.

CUMBERLAND HOUSE—PORTLAND.

This establishment is conducted by an association of gentlemen, who are determined to make it what has been so long needed in Portland, a genteel and comfortable Hotel.

The House was opened in May last, but owing to some contemplated improvements, has not been advertised before. An addition of Fifty Rooms is now making, which will be finished in September, making in all one hundred and twenty rooms.—Permanent arrangements have been made with individuals of known capability, who will manage the detail of business.—The house is situated at the junction of Congress, Middle and Federal streets, opposite the City Hall, and is therefore well adapted for business men.

The Table d' Hote it is believed cannot fail of giving entire satisfaction.

There is also a Ladies Ordinary throughout the year.

Invalids, and persons travelling for pleasure, will find this House particularly calculated for them.
Portland, August 1, 1835. 3m a7

YEOMAN HOUSE.

The subscriber would inform his friends and the public, that he has removed from the Hotel formerly kept by him in Pond street, and has taken the above house, recently erected in Ann street, ten rods north from Faneuil Hall Market—where he hopes to receive a continuance of the patronage which has been generously bestowed upon him in his former house.

The house is spacious, containing about 40 convenient and airy apartments—together with large parlors and drawing rooms—all of which are furnished with entire new furniture, bedding, &c—and is peculiarly calculated for steady and transient boarders.

Gentlemen whose families are out of the city, will find it to their advantage to dine at the above house.

The Larder and Bar will be constantly supplied with all the varieties of the season, and with the choicest refreshments.

Families from the country will be furnished with separate apartments during their stay in the city.

Masters and mates of vessels will find this a convenient house, being contiguous to the wharves and to the landing of the Eastern Steamboats.

N. B. Parties, Fire Societies, Clubs and Companies, will be handsomely accommodated at the shortest notice, and on reasonable terms. LEVI MOWER.

THIRTY DOLLARS REWARD will be paid for the apprehension of JOHN H. WELLS, an enlisted Laborer of the Ordnance Corps, who deserted from the Watertown Arsenal on the 28th of September, 1835. Said Wells is a native of Berwick, State of Maine—is aged 23 years—5 feet 7½ inches high—dark eyes—brown hair—long face and body—black beard, and wore whiskers under the chin when he left.—He was accompanied by his wife, to whom he was lately married. It is probable they will make their way to the house of her father, whose name is Lewis, in the town of York, Maine; or to Lowell, Mass. The above reward will be paid by the Assistant Qr. Mast. in Boston, on the delivery of said Wells at any Military Post in the United States.

Thompson.—If we may credit the newspapers, Thompson certainly possesses the power of ubiquity.—The New York Mercantile says he sailed on Friday, from that port for England, after having remained in New York reveral days incog.—the Sunday News says he made a forced march, in petticoats, from Newport to Tiverton, on Thursday, to escape the consequences of the excitement occasioned by the report that he was in town—the Salem Gazette of yesterday says—"Thompson has been in this town till very recently, and can hardly have had time to 'remain incog.' in New York since he left here; if indeed he have yet departed from Salem"—and our neighbor of the Courier heard on Monday, that he "was actually in this city on Friday forenoon; that he called at a certain stable for the horse of a gentleman, which he has heretofore been in the habit of using, and on being refused its use without an order, procured an order, and stated, on presenting it, that he was engaged to dine that day (Friday) with the owner of the horse." We shall not pretend to decide where, in this case, "doctors disagree," but we do not believe that he has yet left the country—the statements above quoted are three to one against such a supposition, so that we feel safe in jumping down from that fence.

☞ The New York Journal of Commerce says that the owners of the ship Hilah are ignorant that any person by the name of George Thompson sailed in the ship.

Extract of a letter from New York.

"I notice what you say concerning BALLS and BARRETT, and the probable rivalry which may hereafter exist between them. Barrett was undoubtedly the first genteel comedian in the country before the arrival of BALLS to dispute the palm. I always admired Barrett, and consider him a first rate artist. He was a great favorite here in the bright days of the Bowery. I remember it was said that Price made him some overtures to appear at Drury Lane, and take the line of business that Balls was subsequently engaged for. I think Barrett would have done better had he gone to London instead of Boston, though at the latter place he figured as manager. I hope, however, his friends will allow Balls fair play, when he appears; a generous emulation will be advantageous to both and gratifying to the public, should they consent to appear in one piece, and change parts alternately. It would be a rich treat.

I saw Balls last night, in Reynolds's gay comedy of the Dramatist. He pleased me much. The house was good and the applause flattering; Placide and Richings, however, had their share of it. Balls reminds me of Stanley, in face, figure, and style of acting; he is what Stanley might have been before the gout got hold of him. He has a good deal of the old school precision, joined to great bustle and vivacity. If more brilliant than Barrett, he has not so much ease and finish. Barrett reminds me of the movement of a skater on the ice—Balls clatters ahead like a locomotive on a rail road. Barrett may have more originality, Balls more science. In fact, both have peculiar merits of their own, and probably will divide the suffrages of the town. People will appreciate Barrett better after seeing him measured by Balls, undoubtedly the best English light comedian at this time.

I am sorry to hear that FINN is not likely to have a chance to make a farewell appearance in your city, after living so long in Boston. I think he is ill treated in the matter. After Liston, he is the most original and versatile actor extant. His friends should make a stir if the managers persist in their refusal to let him appear, before his departure for New Orleans."

Shipwreck and Loss of Lives.—The bark Mary Ann, of New Bedford, Jeptha Jenny, master, sailed from that port on a whaling voyage on the 23d of September, and on the fifth day out was thrown upon her beam ends, in which position she remained for three hours. When she righted she was full of water—bulwarks, and all her spars and rigging, except the foremast and bowsprit, were carried away. Two men, one named Pearce, an Englishman, and the other Vincent, a Portuguese, perished in the forecastle. The remainder of the crew, 14 in number, were taken from the wreck the next morning by the ship Birmingham, from New York, for Liverpool. The captain, mate, and second mate, were taken from the B. by the packet ship Independence, for New York, and arrived at the latter place on Saturday. The Mary Ann was owned chiefly by Wm. Rodman, Esq., and was insured for $10,000.

Rogers's Stocks.—What a man wears about his neck is of some importance, Garrison might have thought when the rope was put around his—at any rate, there is a difference in tastes relative to this matter—some people are contented with a kerchief negligently tied over their throats—others with a horse-hair stock, stiff as a block of wood, and unyielding as an abolitionist—but the wise man, who wishes to move his chin easily, and clothe the column upon which his head rests gracefully and comfortably, will buy Rogers's Patent Stock—he will find it as yielding and accommodating as its inventor, manufactured from elegant materials, and of long durability; a stock which maintains its standing through all the fluctuations of trade, and never falls below par.

A Whig paper printed at Springfield, we do not recollect its name, says that "Judge Morton is a Stockholder and Director in one or two of the Boston Banks," and that "Wm. Foster is an old federalist"—both of these assertions are entirely false—Mr Morton is neither a Director nor Stockholder in any Boston Bank, nor was ever Mr Foster a federalist—take back the lie, man of Springfield.

A Paine-ful Business.—The Whig editors in Rhode Island are selling out. Mr Paine, of the Providence Journal, offers his portion of that establishment upon "the most accommodating terms."

For the Boston Morning Post.

TO THE MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE—No 3.

If there were ever a fair and natural deduction from the arguments of a man, the arguments thus far noticed of Judge Strong, lead to the conclusion, that universal education is not desirable. If then, it be not desirable, he, or some others of his profession, ought honestly, and boldly to suggest to the Legislature, the metes and bounds which should be put to popular instruction; and then say, who should be initiated in the mysteries of law, and law-making; and who should not.

His arguments will not convert any reasonable man, I am aware; but they seem intended to throw the important subject of morals and politics into utter confusion, and to discourage the weak and the timid. And they will have that effect, it may be feared, in some measure. I remember to have heard a lecture from one of our learned men, before a large assembly of respectable mechanics, which must have had a tendency to convince them, that all matters of government, were of so complicated a character, so very abstruse, that a special study was indispensable, for the understanding of them; and that the hard hands and thick skulls of the farmers and mechanics, had better not meddle with them, not even to simplify them.

We cannot say with truth, that the affairs of politics, or even of morals, as they are now presented to us by interested men, be they clerical or secular, are very plain and intelligible. But it ought to be the business of all good patriots, philanthropists, and moralists, to endeavor to make them so, by tearing away the rags of antiquated error, which mask and disguise political and moral truth.

It is a most deplorable condition of society, where a class of men, and that too called the most respectable; and which is really the most learned and rich, use these precious advantages to mystify the most important truths of society, and perplex the minds of men on their best interests. Yet we must either deny to these classes, that knowledge which they seem to possess, or find them guilty of the charge of wilful deception.

Bribery at the polls, starvation of laborers, by threats of withdrawing patronage, corruption in all its forms, amalgamation of parties, era of good feelings, change of names; all these devices have been employed, and exhausted, by those politicians who strive to go back to European forms of government, and to restore European inequality; and yet the common sense of the community seems to be rising superior to all these wiles of interested error.

As a silent observer of events, I have noticed this apparent triumph with a heartfelt satisfaction. But as a cautious observer of the workings of the secret springs of society, I am inclined to believe, that other, and more dangerous, because insidious, means are now being employed, and vastly multiplied, to produce ends, which bribes and threats have failed to produce.

These means are no less than the corruption of reason at its fountain head, if I may so speak. They consist in mixing up the most poisonous errors with cardinal truths, in imperceptible potions, gilded and decorated with all the flowers and figures, and the very arabesques of rhetoric. We hear them from the bench, the legislative hall, and even from the pulpit; but this this is not new. But what is new, and passingly dangerous, is; having seized on the commendable passion for public lectures, to corrupt the minds of the people through this popular mode of instruction The thirst for knowledge is now intense; and the people in their laudable eagerness to acquire it, are exposed to swallow moral and political poison, instead of the pabulum of truth. Our most accomplished orators, and men of science, and literature, are lecturing on all subjects, to all ages and sexes. And all subjects worthy of lecturing upon, even a silver urn, by the necessary concatination of human affairs, will admit the introduction of the principles of government. And then a silver tongue may give tone and fashion to fashionable fallacies, which no fashionable man, or woman, dare to doubt, or to controvert. Judge Strong asserts that in some instances knowledge increases the propensity, and adds to the power to do mischief. What then must be the power of these demi-gods in science, and eloquence, over the credulous multitude! Let me warn this credulous multitude with the words of a great philosopher, in one of his philipics against the corrupt minister of a corrupt religion—

> Les vains Pretres ne sont par ceque le peuple pense,
> C'est notre credulite qui fait tout leur science.
> These vain Priests are not what the people think them;
> All their science is but in our credulity.

This philosopher, who was first read, extoled and admired by all that was learned or fashionable in Europe, even Kings, was afterwards branded as an infidel, by the same men, because it was discovered that the ultimate tendency of his just castigation of clerical turpitude, weakened the cords of civil despotism, by exposing interested errors where they might least be expected to be found. This same philosopher, whom we too, denounce as an infidel, did but combat with irresistible argument, and cutting satire, the very errors and abuses in religion which we are foremost ourselves in condemning.

FRANKLIN.

East Florida Rail Road.—We understand that William Parker, Esq., has been appointed Chief Engineer of the East Florida Rail Road, and will proceed immediately with his assistants to examine and survey the several routes. The President of the Company, S. S. Lewis, Esq., accompanied by several gentlemen of the vicinity, will also visit the territory in a short time, and the work, it is expected, will be in active progress in the course of this winter.

There was a considerable collection of men and boys in Salem, on Monday evening, caused by the report that Thompson was to hold forth at an Anti-Slavery meeting at the Howard street Vestry—the only outrage committed was that of breaking a lantern in the hand of the sheriff, for which a young man was arrested, but subsequently made his escape. Thompson did not make his appearance.

A fatal affray took place in the western limits o New Bedford, on Saturday, among half a dozen sailors, in the course of which three muskets were discharged, and a man named Henry Mariner, of New Jersey, mortally wounded. Another man by the name of Reed had an eye knocked out and his head severely beaten, and one or two others were wounded.

The Journal of Commerce mentions the arrival in that city on Monday, in custody of a Police officer, of Mrs Mary McKinley, who lately stopped payment in Philadelphia for something over $100,000. She has been indicted for obtaining goods under false pretences from a merchant in New York.

The packet ship Caledonia, Captain Graham, with Mr Bowen, the smuggler, on board, arrived at Liverpool September 19th. The pilot boat despatched by the Collector of New York, in pursuit of Bowen, arrived on the 26th, in company with the packet ship Roscoe.

Wm. B. Washington, of Portage County, Ohio, has been convicted of Perjury, and sentenced to the State's Prison for seven years. The trial created great interest—more than two hundred witnesses were examined.

Graham's Lectures have become very popular.—His discourse this evening will be upon the "Nervous System," illustrated by transparancies—Boylesion Hall is the place.

POLICE COURT.

Marriage Promise.—This is a queer heading for a case in which a lady was convicted of stealing silver spoons, and how far an appropriate one, the sequel will elucidate:—

Mary—for that is the fair culprit's name—is an engaging widow of thirty, and rich in the ripened charms of that mature and equivocal age. Judging of the power of her blandishments from their effects, Mary's should be classed among the most potent, though a widow's. Though a widow's, we say; for it must be admitted that widows do not go off so rapidly in the matrimonial market, as those fair creatures, who have not attained unto that respectable estate. By their greater experience however, in the weak points of the masculine order; by their practical knowledge of the depths and shallows, the recesses, passes, and defiles of the hearts of men, when they do happen to entangle one—especially if he be an old betty bachelor—they generally succeed in ensnaring him much more effectually, and retaining him in captivity, much longer, by their superior finessing, than can an uninitiated beauty, by the unassisted power of her charms, however brilliant and fascinating.——But this is somewhat episodical, and altogether gratuitous and aside from the main current of our case.....We were talking of the effects of Mary's charms: Well, when the officer searched her fair person for the spoons, he found in her pocket a love letter, written in a fair round hand, as frank and unequivocal as its religiously ardent tenor, and apparently indicted in a moment, when the author was "in the very wrath of love." A copy of this letter should be obtained by every swain, who proposes to perpetrate matrimony, as a "safe precedent" of a promise of marriage. It happily steers clear of all ambiguities of construction, and in case of an action of assumpsit on the promise to marry, the counsel for the defendant could only set up the defence of insanity, which, if successful, is always the best. In the letter in question, the promise is full and unreserved:—acknowledging no qualification—contemplating no contingency, which could defeat the consummation of the pledge. Here it is:—

"Boston, June 13th, 1835.

I have never to my knowledge dear Mary given you any just reason to doubt the sincerity of my attachment or the honor of my intentions, and I hereby pledge my sacred word that I will be united to you by the holy rites of marriage, and as God is my witness as I hope for his mercy here or hereafter. I will fulfil the promise I have herein made, and should I not become your husband after this solem assurance may my name be erased from the Lamb's Book of Life, and may the vengeance of heaven pursue me through time and through eternity. In the hope of promoting your happiness and at the same time securing my own, I subscribe myself your truly sincere and affectionate friend.

* * * * M. D.

To Mary ——"

The writer of the preceding letter, we are sorry—truly sorry—to say, did not redeem his pledge. With the improvidence, recklessness, and blindness—"love's blind, they say"—proper, perhaps, in a lover—he staked his hopes here and hereafter, unconditionally, upon the fulfilment of his vow; and we do not believe any mortal power would ever have induced him to have falsified it. But there was one enemy to his earthly happiness, whose enmity he could neither evade nor conquer, but whose existence seemed never to have entered his sanguine heart when he penned the promise. It was Death, to combat whom, the "mighty mock defrauder of the tomb" essayed all arts and medicaments; to battle him from the land did he live—did he, eschewing "mineral poisons," traverse the "vegetable kingdom," and cull the antidotal simple. Yes, dead and defunct, long and lustily didst thou contend, not only with the Grim Enemy himself, but even with his authorized auxiliaries among men, who bear about a regular degree—a medical diploma—giving them a legal right to kill by rule, and collect by law the price of blood.—To expel him and them from this terrequeous globe,

> "From the stubborn shrub
> Thou wrung'st its sly-retiring virtues out,
> And vext them in the fire;"

but while engaged in thy work of fees and philanthropy, thou didst die and disappoint thy Mary dear. But thy works will outlive thee—long after thy name is as dead as the vegetables thou hast "brayed in thy own mortar," shall thy promise of marriage be quoted and preserved as a perfect pattern to be copied by every "true loveyer" who contemplates performing the perpetual penance prescribed "by the holy rites of marriage."

There is another virtue in the above letter—it may operate as a cure for love-sickness, and keep many a decent man—if not a sensible one—from hanging, shooting or drowning himself, on account of the insensibility of his flame. There can be no doubt that the Doctor loved Mary, as much as any man could love a lady; and, by the simplest deductions of logic, Mary must therefor have been capable of inspiring love. To him Mary was the visible and substantial embodiment of all essential purity, excellence, honor. So she appeared to him, as do other dames and damsels to other swains; but yet she stole spoons! Think of that, ye, who worship the temple—the outward form—and take the spirit for granted, or listen to the deceptive representations of an angel's tongue, or a seraphic voice. Yes—

> "What to the valiant Knight of Spain
> Was Donna del Tobosso—
> Such is the idol of his brain
> To every virtuoso."

Hang not, drown not, shoot not, yourselves, for an imaginary loss. Live on, even if a haughty beauty spurns ye; remember, she who now proudly disdains you, may live to be thankful to a constable for gallanting her with politeness to jail, or for searching her pockets for stolen spoons, with civility.

Many a time and oft have we thought it a singular deficiency in the history of literature, that no particular treatise has ever been written demonstrating the great risk a man or woman runs, in attributing to one of the opposite sex any peculiar pre-eminence in mental, moral or spiritual qualifications—talent, honor or sanctity;....showing philosophically how little the best of us poor mortals are worthy of that undying love so often expressed—and sometimes felt. If it unflinchingly dissected, and analyzed the human mind and heart—its powers, propensities, affections—indicating with stern severity their selfishness, grossness and instability—such a treatise would be of incalculable utility, and, more than all the sermons and homilies ever written, exhibit both to the loved and the loving......"what shadows we are, and what shadows we pursue."

Hiram Ferguson Discharged.—We stated yesterday, and with unfeigned regret, that an interesting young man, an apprentice to Mr Joshua Benson, had been apprehended, upon the strength of Tisdale's declaration, that he was an accomplice in setting fire to certain buildings, burnt in Shawmut Street, on the night of the 16th inst. We are now happy to add, that after a full examination yesterday afternoon, he was discharged, there not being a tittle of evidenee adduced against him. Crockett and Russell were examined, and contradicted the statement of Tisdale in every particular, and there is now no doubt, that Tisdale acted alone when he setfire to those buildings.

Very Late from Texas.—By a letter received by the Philadelphia Gazette, dated Nacodoches, Sept. 14th, it appears that the people of Texas are in a state of great anxiety, in consequence of the despot—Santa Anna having excited the Indian tribes to war against the settlers. A council has been held of the tribes at the Cherokee settlement—thirty miles north of Nacodoches, at which, were also some of the distant tribes of Cananches. The people of Texas have written to President Jackson, to arrest the emigration of the Creeks; 5000 of whom were soon expected, and who, it was feared, might be induced to join the other Indians.—They also call upon their brother Americans in the north to send on munitions of war and reinforcements.—N. Y. Star.

Loss of the Eastern Mail.—Last Sunday evening, the great Eastern Mail was lost or stolen from the stage, after it had been "shifted" at the Post Office in this town. The loss was not discovered till the stage reached Boston. No trace of it had been discovered, when our paper went to press last night. The opinion prevails, that the mail must have been stolen from the stage, in the yard of the Coffee House, by some villains who had come on from the eastward for the purpose. There was a great rush and confusion of passengers in the yard at the time the mail was changed, on account of the arrival of three extras at the same moment with the mail stage, in addition to the usual throng.—Salem Gazette.

Sad Death.—Charles Hyde, a lad recently from England, was killed at the shop of R. Hoe & Co., in Gold street, on Friday evening by the following sad and unusual accident. He was lighting the lamps for the evening, and standing near a large grindstone, which was running with great velocity, but upon a shaft so true, that the poor boy not noticing the motion stepped on it. His leg was instantly carried under the guard, where it remained near a minute before his condition became known, during which time the limb was ground nearly off. He was taken out insensible, but revived afterwards sufficiently to relate the circumstances of the accident.—Jour. Com.

By the last accounts from Para, (Brazil,) the Indians, &c. had entire possession of the town, and would probably continue to hold it. Most of the former inhabitants who were fortunate enough to escape massacre, had fled to Maranham, many of them in a state of great destitution.—Jour. Com.

DAVIS'S CHEMICAL VEGETABLE Liquid Oil Soap.

THIS article, by a proper application, removes grease spots and all other substances, from Carpets, Woollen, Cotton and Linen Garments of every description, without injuring in the least the color or texture of the goods. It restores them to their original lustre, and may be used with perfect safety, even on the finest fabrics. It is particularly recommended for cleansing Coat Collars, so apt to become soiled by the hair. It is also extremely useful in all cases of Sprains, Bruises, Corns and Rheumatism. It is likewise a remedy for Scalds or Burns of any description, relieving the pain and effecting a cure more readily than any article hitherto used for the purpose. Ample directions for its application, in all cases, will be found on each bottle.

There is so much convenience and economy in its use, that no person, having once tried it and ascertained its virtues, would ever afterwards be without it.

The above article for sale by WM. C. STIMPSON & CO., No 3, South side Faneuil Hall. ep1w—1aw6m—o26

NEW COMMISSION MOROCCO STORE,—Opposite the ruins of the Hotel, near the Warren Bridge.—The subscriber would inform his old friends, who may be now living, and likewise new comers, that he intends now if possible to surmount all difficulties, and resume his old business again—like the Comet, who has been long absent, but has once more appeared, to attract the attention of those who are pleased with new objects, he is still in being—and although cast down by unavoidable misfortunes, he is not, nor does he believe he ever shall be destroyed.

He has now on hand a few dozen of black Curracoa Goat and Kid Skins, of a superior quality; Cream and Allum Linings, some of them remarkably thin, for the lining of Ladies' Slips; Striped Findings, &c.;—all of which he will sell at the lowest prices for cash or approved credit.

☞ Please call on an old friend, who did business in ancient times—he may still have something on hand for your benefit.

LAST MANUFACTORY.—WIGHT'S Last Manufactory, in Fulton street, is now in operation again. The old friends and patrons of CHARLES WIGHT are respectfully requested to "drop in" with their orders. The enlargements and improvements introduced since the fire, it is hoped, will enable this establishment to "go ahead" on such a scale as to fulfill all orders with punctuality and despatch; at any rate, no efforts will be wanting to merit a continuance of that liberal patronage which has been extended to this establishment since its commencement in May last. The public are respectfully reminded that this establishment has no connection whatever with the manufactory in Front street, or the store in North Market street.

30 Fulton street, 29th Sept. 1835. 2aw3wis—o2—

IMPORTANT.—A desirable opportunity now offers to a purchaser, or for a partner, of one of the oldest Apothecary and Drug Stores in our country; and one whose location is second perhaps to none other—it being in one of our large active cities—and the situation directly in the centre of the city. For particulars, inquire of HENSHAW & CO. Druggists, Boston.

P. S. If a partner, the sum of 5 or 6000 dollars in hand would be requisite—if a purchaser, still more.

GENUINE LIFE PRESERVERS.

From the Baltimore Patriot.

THE following paragraph, setting forth the value and importance of these Life Preservers, is from a late number of the New York Journal of Commerce. The expense of procuring a full supply of the article for every steamboat, would be comparatively inconsiderable, and ought not to enter into the calculation, when taking measures for adding to the safety of passengers, and for the preservation of human life. We learn that any number of these "Life Presrevers" may be obtained at short notice of Messrs F. Hutchings & Co, in this city.

LIFE PRESERVERS.—As it is impossible for steamers to carry small boats enough to secure the lives of their passengers in case of disaster, they ought to be furnished with a sufficient quantity of the India Rubber Life Preservers. The expense would be small, and the security against the appalling scenes which may otherwise occur, would be will nigh complete.—The preserver is nothing more nor less than a double girth to be buckled round the body, which can be put on and inflated in less than a minute, and being on, the individual cannot sink, but would float with his head and shoulders above water for months. If five hundred persons were to be cast on Long Island Sound or Hudson River, each with a Life Preserver on, they would be saved. But what would be their condition if obliged to betake themselves to these waters without such protection, especially if a disaster should happen in the night? We think the owners of steamboats owe it to their passengers to be provided with a sufficient number of Life Preservers always on hand, to furnish each passenger with one.

The LIFE PRESERVER may be obtained, in any quantity, at the Roxbury India Rubber Factory, where this article was first invented. Warehouse No 109 State st, Boston.

N.B.—A selection of assorted Tooth Brushes kept constantly for the accommodation of his patients. Also, the Florentine Dentifrice, a beautiful article for whitening the teeth, and yielding fragrance to the breath.

Persons requiring operations on the teeth will please call and see specimens at office, corner of Hanover and Portland street. 3m jy8

ADAMS'S PATENT

THE subscriber has on hand a good assortment of the Swelled Beam Windlass Bedsteads, which, for comfort and convenience is undoubtedly the best article yet invented; its chief peculiarity is that of the Swelled Beam, the effect of which is to produce a crowning, and elastic sacking, and effectually provides against its saging. They are easily set up or taken down, and may be saved in case of fire as easily as any other piece of furniture, and from its mode of construction less liable to harbor insects than any other kind; but above all its advantages is the ease and comfort obtained from the sacking, by means of its being made and kept elastic by means of the Swelled Beam, (the form of which is exhibited in the above cut.)

Orders thankfully received, and promptly attended to
